Explanatory notes

Underlease agreement for commercial property

General matters

1. Basic terms of a sublease

As you edit this document, be careful not to remove or reduce the obligations of your subtenant to comply with the head lease. We have provided specifically that he shall comply, of course, so

2. Signing

This deed should be signed in quadruplicate so that each party has a copy

Legal draftsmen have always provided for signature at the end of the document. However, it is always easy to change a page fraudulently. Today, best practice for an important document is to sign were shown and for

3. Sublease must be registered?

A lease of up to ten years does not have to be registered. If the term of this lease is longer than ten years it must be registered at the Deed Registry Office. A

Premises: substitute some alternative word if you wish. We cannot over emphasise the importance of a full specification of the subject matter of the sublease, particularly if it is not the whole of the land and premises let by the head lease. If it is complicated you could put it in a schedule. The best way is

A good plan may also throw up unresolved side issues such as where the bins go and whether the landlord can park a

A further tip is to take photographs, particularly close-up to any feature, so that the condition is clear. If the premises are in excellent condition, the landlord will benefit most from photographs. If the premises are in poor condition, then it is the subtenant who

Rent: is generally calculated in R per square foot or R per square metre, but the calculation rarely appears in the sublease. The landlord will often specify a particular round sum when a property is advertised. Like

Rent review: an option. In or out. You choose. Historically, reviews were agreed at five yearly intervals. For this short sublease we suggest three or four years would be more

If the rent review on the head lease is copied then of course the rent will be the same in the sub lease. However, most landlords do not permit sub letting. The very fact of your being able to sublet indicates unusual circumstances, That means

The sublessor has no interest in the premises. His interest is entirely to avoid

This and the two following paragraphs should not be needed if the head lease is perfect and matches the requirements of both the head landlord and the sublessor. Why? Because this sublease is "carved out" of

However, the draftsman of the head lease may not have thought of everything and the present sublessor (as tenant under the head lease)

There may be other reasons to add some of these provisions: a guarantor may require changes. The area

The first few items here are usual. Sub paragraph 1 refers to condition as at today. This is done through a "schedule of dilapidations". The parties jointly appoint a surveyor to provide a list of
